Blinchiki

nowadays we have a big amount of delicious dishes from different countries. All of them are incredible by their tastes and forms of supply. I like to try new emotions and flavours of food. That's why I really love eating Russian traditional dishes. Russia is a big country, so, for this reason we have so much national food but the most popular are jelly meat, Russian salad and sandwiches with a red caviar. Also, Russians love to eat unusual food like a cold soup "Okroshka" and small balls from potato and onion. This food can be really specific for foreigners because of squid. But in my family we love cooking traditional dishes like blinchiki with a strawberry jam which come from my grandmother's family. The recipe of this food is so easy. you need to get two eggs, milk and flavour. Blinchiki should be gold and it means that they're ready. They're can be with ~~out~~ chocolate, jam or sugar. Also, we love to cook chicken with ~~sauteed~~ tomatoes. These dishes are amazing and I try to share the information about them on my social media for foreigners. So, for this reason I recommend to eat in Russia because you'll find dishes which you won't forget and you will remember it all your life because of its taste.

Blini

As Russia is an enormous country and we've got many regions that were separated before, that's why their development was happening during different time periods and various cultures were mixed together so it's become hard to divide their cuisine into the traditional Russian one and others. Nowadays we can refer dishes like borsh, okroshka and salad 'Olivie' to the local ones.

Excepting other dishes that were mentioned previously, there are lots of popular ones more, for example, pelmeny, chebureki, pirozhki and else. Personally, my favourite dish is blini. Eggs, milk, baking powder are mixed together and fried from both sides. Finally, you get a thin pancake which we usually eat with honey or jam. As for me, I love adding sgushenka to this dish but others sometimes add meat with various vegetables.

Blini are liked almost by everyone. On the other hand, okroshka-soup may seem to be weird for foreigners as it contains many unmatching ingredients and tastes a little bit sour. In my family we enjoy trying food of different cuisines of the world, however, Russian dishes are more usual to us. In my region it's easier to get deer's meat so we make specific dishes like shurpa that is not so widely-spread in another parts of Russia. To my mind, to understand the local culture you surely need to try various food so it's worth eating all the dishes available to you. You can use this text with my list of the traditional Russian food, hope you like it!

Borsch

Everyone knows that Russian food is famous all around the world. You can find restaurants which serve Russian cuisine in almost all countries. It's not a secret that a lot of tourists visit Russia not just to see famous historical attractions, but to take a taste of the delicious traditional food. That's why big Russian cities are filled with all kinds of restaurants with national food in here, which grabs attention of the foreign tourists.

If you ask someone about the Russian food, which pops in their mind first, you'll probably hear a word "Borsch". I can't judge these people, because borsch is really popular not only among tourists, but Russian people themselves. My favourite food are borsch and other kinds of soups as well! They are all so tasty and it can't be denied that they are also healthy! My family makes soups for almost every dinner, so it kinda became a tradition for us. I think that all families in Russia can say that too, because soups are very popular here.

Even though there are so many tasty and delicious-looking dishes in Russian cuisine, there are also dishes which can look specific and weird for a foreign tourist. For example, "kolodels". It's a Russian traditional dish which is usually served on the New Year's table. It has a specific look which can be unpleasing for not prepared tourists. The taste is also can be funny, so that dish isn't so popular among tourists.

Nevertheless Russian food has a lot of tasty dishes! I'd recommend to try different soups and salads for foreign tourists. ~~As~~ They are so delicious, that you will want to eat them again and again! You definitely should give Russian food a chance!
